READY FOR PARCELS POST

Packages of Eleven Pounds Weight and Six Feet Size Allowed.

RURAL ROUTE SERVICE

Mail Will Be Delivered to Everybody, Just As At Present.

Washington, Dec. 16.—Regulations to cover workings of the new parcels post system, which is to go into operation January 1 next, have been made public. The new system will be effective throughout the entire postal service at the same time and will affect every postoffice, city, rural and railway rail transportation route in the country.

The regulations provide that parcels of merchandise, including farm and factory products (but not books and printed matter) of almost every description up to 11 pounds in weight and measuring as much as six feet in length and girth combined, except those calculated to do injury to the mails in transit, may be mailed at any postoffice for delivery to any address in the country. Delivery will be made to the homes of people living on rural and star routes as well as those living in cities and towns where there is delivery by carrier. Where there is at present no delivery by carrier the parcels will go to the postoffice as is the case with ordinary mail.

The postage rate for the first zone—that is, within distances not exceeding fifty miles—will be five cents for the first pound and three cents for each additional pound. Rates increase for each successive one of the eight zones into which the country is divided, the maximum rate being 12 cents a pound, which will carry a parcel across the continent or even to Alaska and the Philippines.

For a fee of 10 cents a parcel may be insured and if the parcel is lost, in the mails an indemnity to the amount of its value not to exceed $50 will be paid to the sender.

The law provides for the use of distinctive postage stamps and these are now being distributed to postmasters for use in the parcels post system. A set of stamps of 12 denominations. Parcel post maps, with accompanying guides, are to be sold to the public at the cost, 75 cents, through the chief clerk of the post-office department.

BASE BALL

Players May Come Here In The Spring For Training.

There are possibilities that the Cleveland, Ohio, ball team may come here for training in the spring. The local managers have put in a bid for the team to come here, and Corsicana, Texas, has also offered inducements for the Cleveland men to make that their training place. We have everything they should reasonably ask for, splendid grounds and ample hotel accommodations, and everything else. By securing the Cleveland club the chances for securing good material for the Mogul team next season would be splendid.

KEARNEY DROWNED

Pontoon Rescued From The Pacific Ocean Tells of End of Daring Aviator.

NO OTHER TRACE FOUND.

Machine In Which He Met His Death Named For His Fiancee, A Madisonville Girl.

Los Angeles, Dec. 16.—Horace Kearney, the young Kansas City aviator, attempting hydro-aeroplane flight from Los Angeles to San Francisco, is believed to have been drowned, together with Chester Lawrence, a Los Angeles newspaper man, who was accompanying him on the trip.

A pontoon of the hydro-aeroplane, "Snookums," was picked up late today in the Pacific ocean by a motor boat four miles off Redondo Beach.

No other trace has been found

Kearney flew last fall at Evansville, Henderson, Madisonville and other cities in the Ohio Valley. He was unusually daring.

Flying For Eighteen Months

Horace Kearney was 26 years old and had held his license eighteen months. In a tour of 105 days through the middle East last summer, he flew every day but one without an accident. At Springfield, Ill., his engine stopped.

His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kearney and a brother, Archie Kearney lived in Kansas City. He was engaged to Miss Louise McPherson of Madisonville, Ky., and named his new hydroaeroplane "Snookums" after his pet name for his fiance.

POSTMASTER WILLIAMSON

Announces an Innovation During Xmas Holidays.

During the Christmas rush of postoffice business Postmaster V. M. Williamson has arranged to make parcels delivery throughout the city by wagons.

This is an indication of the increased business done through the postoffice. It will be a great relief to the carriers and will be a good thing for the people. Already many Christmas packages are overloading the carriers and entail a great deal of work for them. So great is the work that they are about broken down before getting through with deliveries.

There has also been a great increase in the money order and special delivery business at the postoffice, and the inside people have plenty work to keep them as busy as bees during the day, to say nothing of the great amount of work to be done when the parcels post law goes into effect the first day of January.

The two express companies doing busby here are having all they can do to ship out goods for Christmas, and they are also on the eve of having to do much extra labor in receiving and delivering goods that will begin coming in the latter part of this week as well as handling thousands of packages of whisky sent to points where it is not sold.

London, Dec. 16.—Whitelaw Reid, the American ambassador to Great Britain since 1905, died at his London residence, Dorchester House, shortly after noon Sunday from pulmonary oedema. The end was quite peaceful. Mrs. Reid and their daughter, Mrs. John Hubert Ward, were at the bedside. His son was on the ocean enroute to England. He was 75 years old and had filled many high offices.

A PRETTY ROMANCE.

Cupid Gets in His First Work at City Infirmary.

Ever-busy Cupid invaded the precincts of the City Infirmary Sunday morning, October 20th, the day of the wreck of the Illinois Central railroad excursion train.

Among the most seriously injured by the wreck was Mr. Walter S. Wood, of this county. The physicians had Mr. Wood taken to the infirmary and he was put in charge of Miss Julia Breeding, of Hendersonville, N. C. The nurse was most faithful in her attendance on the injured man and she soon won his heart. After leaving the hospital he opened up a correspondence with Miss Breeding which culminated in an engagement, the nuptials to take place the day after Christmas at the Methodist church, Rev. A. R. Kasey to officiate.

This is a purely local event. It took place in Hopkinsville. Not in some faraway place. You are asked to investigate it. Asked to believe a citizen's word? To confirm a citizen's statement? Child-Training.

It is not fair to a small child for the parents or nurse to be careless about the little things that develop thoughtfulness, self-reliance and self-control in a child. Self-control is a characteristic absolutely essential to manhood or womanhood, and it is not learned in a day. It is the result of patient teaching and training through all the long years of babyhood and childhood.

Yield of a Grain of Wheat.

Very few people have an idea of the bounty of nature. A scientist of Cambridge, Eng., recently made an instructive experiment which showed that a single grain of wheat sown in June, produced 47 pounds 7 ounces. One acre of fairly good land will produce 30 bushels of wheat or 1,260 pounds of flour.

Clever Idea of Thieves.

An up-to-date method of robbing hotels is exposed in the German papers. Two young men of excellent appearance are moving about Germany, staying at the best hotels in the leading holiday resorts. After dinner one of them amuses the hotel guests with songs, pianoforte solos and anecdotes, thus keeping the majority of them in the drawing room, while his companion ransacks the private rooms for money and valuables.

MRS. WOODROW WILSON
ARTISTIC HOME-MAKER

Mrs. Wilson undoubtedly will feel the thrill produced in the heart of every born housekeeper by the contemplation of the possibilities which every new abode possesses and such an abode. Though the task is too large for one woman to supervise, Mrs. Wilson probably will make a tour of inspection every day, and, with her artistic knowledge and love of home making, will add many personal touches to the house and grounds.

The family probably will bring its negro servants, reminiscent of its southern home. Many of the servants at the White House are black. Thus Mr. Wilson will not discontinue the eating of "chicken, southern style" and candied sweet potatoes. In fact, the home life of the family will simply be taken up bodily and deposited against another background with not one of its integral parts disturbed. The Misses Wilson have interests of the kind that take girls from the fireside into the world and probably will find little time with their added social duties to aid their mother with the burdens of the establishment. Will they become frivolous or Washington society serious is the question everybody is asking.

Will the presence of three young women of serious mind, instead of school girls or debutantes dreaming of their entree into the world of society with the historic environment of the president's house, deprive Washington society of the informal dances and dinners which delighted the younger set during the last administration? Miss Margaret Wilson has a rich soprano voice, which has been trained under New York teachers. Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson is a graduate of the Woman's college at Baltimore and has thrown herself heart and soul into sociological work. What the Lighthouse at Philadelphia, which is the scene of her settlement work, will do without her, or whether she will, as heretofore, spend only Sundays with her family, is not known. Miss Ellen Randolph Wilson has inherited her mother's skill with the brush and is a student at the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts. Will these young women give up their chosen avocations to live always in Washington?

That a family possessing such personality will make its imprint on the character and policy of entertaining at the White House is to be expected. The policy of the Taft regime caused the invitation lists to be reduced and the number of entertainments increased, so as to avoid the impersonal crashes which prevent "the first lady of the land" from really becoming acquainted with her guests.

WHITE HOUSE BABY

INTRODUCED TO SOCIETY

The most brilliant social function that Princeton, N. J., has seen in many years took place at "Westlands," the Cleveland home, the other afternoon, when Miss Esther Cleveland made her formal debut into society. Society people from all of the large cities of the east were present and over four hundred guests thronged the large and richly furnished rooms of the home of the late president of the United States.

The house was charmingly decorated with palms and chrysanthemums, countless roses and other flowers of the season that had been sent to Miss Cleveland were everywhere around the house. The guests were received in the large drawing room by Mrs. Cleveland. Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Cleveland's mother, and Miss Cleveland.

While Mrs. Cleveland did not desire to have anything detract from making it Miss Esther's day, yet she herself received congratulations, for it was the first time many had seen her since she announced her engagement to Prof. T. J. Preston, who was present.

Miss Cleveland was gowned for the afternoon tea in white chiffon trimmed with silver, while in the evening her costume was of blue chiffon trimmed with pearls.

Cater to Popular Demand.

An enterprising Brooklyn dealer in second-hand furniture has hit upon a new plan for catering to the wants of his customers, whose preferences run to goods left in flats by "going away" owners. To satisfy the demands for bargains of this peculiarity and at the same time keep his regular stock down to par this dealer rents flats, fits them out in tasty style, advertises that the late owner was called suddenly to Europe or Timbuctoo or some other place and then holds the auction. "There is a class of bargain hunters who have a leaning to this kind of sale and who will buy in no other way," he says in excuse for his new method. "I give them the bargains they are looking for and throw in more to liven up their flats." He says the departing people—New York City.

The fowls will be dressed at the company's quarters, at First and Railroad streets, and shipped to the large cities. HER MAGAZINE STORY

How Bob Found His Long Lost Ruth.

By ADELE MENDEL.

"Come on to bed, Robert; it's past midnight," said his roommate, Kenneth, as he knocked the ashes from his curved meerschaum pipe.

"Just want to read one more story and then I'll be with you," answered Robert, settling himself comfortably in the huge leather arm chair.

"One would think you were a lovesick maid, the way you devour those magazine stories," growled Kenneth.

"I'm not a lovesick maid, but maybe I'm that kind of a man," said Robert with a quizzical air and throwing down his magazine.

"I've no doubt of that, none at all," emphatically answered Kenneth. "Any fellow of twenty-eight who refuses to call on girls, declines all invitations to dances, dinners and parties, who never changes the color or style of his necktie, has something wrong with him, mark my word."

"Her name is Ruth Wilson," began Robert, as if he were repeating a well-known lesson. "She was a little pen-and-ink sketcher and sold some of her work to our firm; that is how I first became acquainted with her. But our acquaintance soon grew to friendship, and then it wasn't many months before we both knew we were in love with each other. I wanted to marry at once, but Ruth insisted upon waiting a year, as she felt she had a future in her artistic career and was not as yet willing to give it up. Patiently I agreed, and at the end of the allotted time she begged for six months more. And then another and yet another delay, until one evening, as we were seated in her two-by-four hall-room studio on the third story of a second-class boarding house, irritated by her seeming preference for her profession when she again asked for a postponement of our marriage, I lost my temper and hurled unkind, angry words at the girl. Naturally, she resented my attitude. One word led to another, I banged the door and dashed like a madman down the stairs and out of the house. I walked miles and miles,

"Robert thanked the girl, boarded his train, and lost no time in reaching his office and writing a passionate appeal to Ruth for forgiveness.

Many and weary were the weeks that followed. Hope and despair alternated in Robert's breast, but no answer came.

"It's no use," he remarked one evening to Kenneth. "Ruth has received my letter long before this, and it is evident that she no longer cares enough for me to answer it. I don't—"

The telephone rang, and Robert stepped to the phone. He heard a soft voice say, "Is this you, Robert? I just received your letter, returned to me from England. I am stopping with my aunt, Mrs. Davenport, who, strange to say, lives in an apartment next to yours. Would you care to come over?"

"Would I care to?" cried Robert. "Oh, girl, just wait two minutes and see!"

As Robert bounded down the stairs, Kenneth said to himself: "I guess the little authoress won't be able to call her story 'Unfinished' any more."

HIS FIRST USE FOR WEALTH

For a Millionaire, Mose's Aspirations Would Seem to the Ordinary Man Singularly Modest.

E. F. Swinney, president of the First National bank of Kansas City, was born in the south, says the Saturday Evening Post. He goes back home once or twice a year and it is part of the homecoming program to have Old Mose polish his shoes. Old Mose prides himself on the fact that he has known "Misteh Eddie" since he was born—and "his daddy befo' him."

When Mr. Swinney was there recently Mose was polishing his shoes. He stopped and asked:

"Misteh Eddie, how much is a million dollars?"

"Well, Mose," Mr. Swinney replied, "you have seen ten silver dollars, haven't you? Now, imagine ten of those stacks and you have a hundred dollars. Then ten times that and you have $1,000. Then ten times that and you have $10,000—and 100 times that and you have a million."

"Misteh Eddie," continued Mose, exceedingly troubled, "would all them silver dollars go on that table yondah?"

"No, Mose—not if they were piled to the ceiling. What would you do if you had a million silver dollars, Mose?"

Mose stopped shining. He pondered for a minute. Then he said:

"Well, Misteh Eddie, I reckon I'd have mah cisteh cleaned out."

Deceived by Appearances.

John Melpolder, superintendent of the Boys' club, is very fond of walking.

Melpolder was camping recently north of Broad Ripple and decided to walk to Indianapolis. The roads were dusty and the sun beat down relentlessly.

When Melpolder reached Broad Ripple he had covered ten or twelve miles and looked like a tramp. Coming to a fork in the road, and not being sure of the correct route, Melpolder approached two girls and a young man sitting in the shade.

"Can you tell me how to get to Indianapolis?" he asked. The correct road was pointed out and as he started to plod on one of the girls said:

"Why you are not going to walk, are you?"

"Why, yes," said the pedestrian, "I thought I would."

The young man fumbled in his pocket.

"Here," he said, fishing out a dime,

"you better ride the street car in. You can catch it about a square up the road."

Then each girl handed him a coin.

Melpolder thanked them kindly for their preferred assistance, but declined the offer, saying that he preferred to walk.

When he started on they looked after him in open-eyed astonishment.—In

"Why do you spend so much care on the crease of your pants, hey?"

"It is important, dad, not to wear baggy trousers."

"Important, is it? Why, you young cub, look here. Did you ever see a statue to a man who didn't wear baggy pants?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

MADE FROM SPINACH

DISHES THAT ARE HEALTHY AND PALATABLE.

Subsides of the Vegetable Are Recommended as an Excellent Preparation—Croutades Also Popular—Served With Butter.

Subsides of Spinach—Chop two pounds of cooked spinach, throw it into hot butter, add salt and pepper to taste and one tablespoonful of flour; let this cook for six or seven minutes, then take it off the fire and add three well-beaten eggs. Mix them with the spinach, and spoonful by spoonful drop them into a saucier containing a sufficient quantity of melted butter to fry them. Turn the subsides from one side to the other and let them cook for three or four minutes; strain and serve them with a good white sauce.

Croutades of Spinach—Cut some bread into the shape of hearts, and slit them all around, then fry them in hot butter. Arrange the hearts in the form of a rosette. Next cut a round of bread, which slit in the same way, and place it in the center over the points of the hearts. Fry them till they are a golden brown, then cut out the interior, take out all the crumb and fill the space left with cooked spinach.

Spinach with Butter—Take two pounds of freshly picked spinach, wash it well in two or three cold waters, then drain it thoroughly and put it into a clean saucepan with four heaping tablespoonfuls of butter and two tablespoonfuls of flour that have been cooked together but not discolored, cover the saucepan and let the spinach cook in this way till drawn down to a creamy consistency, which will take about twenty minutes, then run it through a fine sieve and then return it again to the saucepan, add to it three tablespoonfuls of cream, reboil, add a dust of white pepper and a very little salt, dish up and garnish it round with little croutons of fried bread or little pieces of puff paste that are baked a pretty golden color, and serve.

Stuffed Shoulder.

Remove bone or have it taken out where you buy it. Cut off all rind with some of the fat on it, roll about six common crackers very fine, pour enough very hot water to moisten well but not too soft. Pepper and salt to taste and one teaspoon of poultry dressing. Mix well with crackers, wash meat well and dry. Place in pan, put cracker mixture where bone had been, roll up, tie with string to keep in place. If you wish to have fat part on top flour well on top, salt and pepper, add one cup of water in pan, bake until a nice brown. When done take from pan, mix some flour in a little cold water. Thicker gravy on top of stove. You will find it delicious. With the bone you can make a nice pea soup. The rind with fat is put into tin plate in oven until all grease is out, but be sure not to burn it, and you will have a lot of nice lard for cooking, nice for cake or any kind of frying.

Chartreuse of Jelly.

Cut the center of a round sponge cake, leaving the bottom and sides thick enough to hold one quart of jelly. Prepare a lemon, orange, strawberry or coffee jelly. When it is cold, just ready to form, turn into the cake and set aside to cool. When ready to serve cover with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored. Do you add whites of eggs to gelatine when beginning to harden? Let cool. When ready to serve pour custard around the gelatine. Lemon jelly, with whites of two eggs added, is very nice.

Baked Pork Chops.

Wipe chops with a damp cloth and trim off excess fat. Core apples and cut in halves crosswise; put apples in pan with a little water and bake ten minutes. In the meantime dust chops with salt, pepper and a trace of sage and sprinkle well with ground bread crumbs. Set chops in pan and put into hot oven to bake, cooking till tender, about twenty-five to thirty minutes. Remove apples and chops to hot platter and make a gravy of the drippings in the pan and a cupful of boiling water, seasoning as necessary.

Dutch Hotpot.

Boil six carrots with six onions (medium) until tender. In another kettle boil six medium-sized potatoes. Drain all the water from both, put them together, mash them well, add one teaspoon of salt, one-half teaspoon of sugar, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper, one-half cupful of butter and one-half cupful of milk or cream. Beat well and serve hot.

How to Serve Beefsteak.

Braise meat and season on a platter as usual. Make a dressing of bread crumbs with plenty of onion in it as for a stuffed fowl. Shape into small cakes, using an egg to help bind mixture, and brown in butter in a frying pan. Place these on the surface of the steak with a bit of parsley if you have it and serve.

Fruit Roll Pudding.

Make bluclut dough, using butter instead of lard and a spoonful of sugar. Sift flour lightly over the roll, dot with butter, put one cup of sugar and one pint of boiling water in pan. Any kind of fruit can be used. I like it best with sliced apple. Roll it out flat, spread with fruit and roll up pressed as above.

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more healing than anything you ever used.

To keep artificial teeth and bridge-work clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot douches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. TASTES IN PERFUMES

STRONG SCENTS ARE NOT CONSIDERED GOOD FORM.

Some Subtle Fragrance, However, Every Woman Should Convey—Many of Them Are Nerve Stimulants and Healthy.

The first perfume came to us in the flowers. The perfumer, like the musician and the painter, tries to copy nature to please the senses of man.

The first to discover the art of perfumery were the natives of the Orient. Their ancient civilization was not alone responsible for this. These nations cultivate all things which delight the senses. The taste in perfume among various races differs exceedingly.

The first perfume was obtained by burning aromatic gums and woods. The word itself is derived from "per," through, and "fuming," smoke.

Perfumery was studied by the various nations which in turn held the scepter of civilization.

The Hebrews when in captivity learned the art from the Egyptians; the Romans from the Greeks, and the western nations from the Romans. With the fall of Rome the art was forgotten, and was rediscovered during the conquests of the crusaders in the far east.

The excessive use of perfume by refined people in Europe during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries was to counteract the unpleasant odors which abounded in those days.

Women of today display a refined taste in the use of perfumes, while their fore-mothers used musk, civet and lavender.

The progress in the art of perfumery is perhaps the cause of this. The perfumer of today is constantly seeking to wrest new secrets from nature. Hardly a flower grows that has not had its secret reproduced.

Strong perfumes are not considered in good taste in these days. The delicate, subtle fragrance is the one preferred.

Many scents are nerve stimulants and health-givers. Every woman has her glass bottle of lavender salts, so refreshing when tired or suffering from a headache.

France and England lead the world today in the manufacture of perfumes.

Each woman chooses her own beautiful scent and envelopes her belongings in it. Garments, lace, notepaper and even books exhale this delicate fragrance.

At present the fad for scent bottles and pomanders, worn about the neck upon long chains, is in high favor.

These are in silver in antique design and incrusted with semiprecious stones.

More elaborate ones of gold duplicates of those worn by court ladies during the reign of Louis XV. may be had; but they are rather expensive. Of rocco design and set with jewels, they are wonderfully beautiful.

Pomanders or perfume balls of the seventeenth century are less expensive.

These come in many designs. Gold ones, representing oranges and heart-shaped designs in filigree work, readily allow the scent to escape. Others are small shaped or fashioned to represent English walnuts or tiny spheres carved and adorned with jewels.

The woman who keeps apace with the times must purchase a scent bottle.

SHOWING TWO IDEAS.

Color Scheme.

A very good color scheme for a living room is in all the varying shades of brown, with now and then a touch of orange to brighten it, says Needlecraft. The floor should be given the darkest shade of brown, the walls a medium tone and the ceiling a cream shade. The furniture of this room could be of the best variety of mission, the rug oriental with plenty of orange or red in them, and the curtains should have a decided golden tint, as the light abiding through them is very beautiful against brown. A touch of yellow might be given in a couch pillow and lamp shade.

New Linings.

The newest linings for top coats are those of the Jouy taffeta. This fabric, with its pretty design, is entirely too effective to be concealed as lining, and is therefore allowed to show itself in the collar, revers, cuffs and trimming. The tints in the Jouy taffeta are quite as soft and well blended as in the cretonnes with which we have long been familiar.

CAPT. RILEY CORN KING

Raises 125 1-2 Bushels On One Acre of Land.

SEED SELLS AT $10 BUSHEL

Produces From Six to Twelve Ears to the Stalk.

Old Christian steps to the front
this year as the champion in corn production per acre and Capt. J. W.
Riley, of near Newstead, may justly lay claim to the title of corn king of Kentucky, if not of the entire country.

Capt. Riley was in town Monday attending the farmers institute. He said he let his boy have an acre of ground as a member of the boys' contest, and by careful cultivation the acre produced 125 bushels. Estimating this at 5 bushels to the barrel, 125 bushels would be 25 barrels, with $\frac{1}{2}$ bushel for wastage.
The captain is selling the corn at $2 per bushel (shelled) for seed, which is $10 per bbl. Twenty-five barrels at $10 amounts to $250 realized on one acre of land. Estimating land at $65 per acre, the one acre put in corn this year paid for itself four times and $10 over. The yield was from six to twelve ears to the stalk.

This is a wonderful yield, but,
coming from a man so well known as is Capt. Riley the statement is entitled to the fullest credence. Capt.
Riley's statement, though unnecessary, is backed up by the affidavit of two of his neighbors, who are well known in the city and county.

AMUSEMENTS.

Coming Dec. 18.

"Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" will be presented at Holland's Opera House on Dec. 18, in identically the same manner that has attracted enthusiastic crowds at George M. Cohan's theatre in New York City for one solid year. Never before has so elaborate and successful an attraction been brought here, and "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" already promises to establish new records for attendance.

Coming Dec. 21.

With the greatest singing and dancing chorus ever assembled with one show, with more song hits and exclusive features than were ever seen in any production, "The Smart Set," is coming back to Holland's Opera Dec. 21 to add new laurels to those earned. The production is entitled "The Darktown Politician." The Dixieland Drill, Southland Octo-ette, Ragtime Jubilee, and half a score of other features aid in making the performance one long, to be remembered with the greatest of pleasure. Entire house for colored people only.

FELL INTO DITCH

And Town of Crofton is Sued
For Damages.

Suit was filed last week in Circuit Court by Mrs. B. J. Dunning against the town of Crofton. In her petition the plaintiff says that a ditch was dug in one of the Crofton streets and was left uncovered. On her way to church at night she fell in the ditch and was painfully injured, wherefore she prays judgment in the sum of $2,000.

Good Weather Promised.

Washington, Dec. 15.—The indications are that temperatures above the seasonal average will prevail throughout the country in the coming week, according to the weather bureau, with the precipitation generally light and confined principally to the northern border states, the northwest and the Pacific states.
"There are indications," says the weekly weather bulletin, "that near the close of the week the weather will become considerably colder in the northwest."
